VIA EMAIL

Ms. Ashley Steinberg
Head of Legal Affairs
The Boring Company
130 Walker Watson Road
Bastrop, TX 78602

Dear Ms. Steinberg:

Elon Musk, Boring Company's Founder, currently serves as the head of the Department of Government Efficiency ("DOGE"), while operating with the official status of "special government employee" of the federal government.<sup>1</sup> Mr. Musk's dual roles—running a for-profit corporation while serving in public office—not only create glaring conflicts of interest that pose grave risks for America's most sacred institutions, but may also violate federal law.<sup>2</sup> Pursuant to Senate Resolution 59 (118th Cong.) and Rule 1 of the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations ("PSI" or "the Subcommittee"), PSI is conducting a preliminary inquiry into DOGE and the ramifications of its conduct. I therefore write to request information and records regarding steps Boring Company has taken to address these significant conflicts of interest and to notify you that, in light of the possibility that Boring Company may be enabling the violation of ethics requirements, obtaining unfair competitive advantages, and potentially violating federal laws, you are obligated to preserve all records pertaining to Boring Company's interactions with DOGE or any agent operating on its behalf.

Mr. Musk and his team have reportedly obtained unparalleled access to sensitive government data in the two weeks since DOGE was established. Since assuming his role, Mr.

POST (Dec. 19, 2024), <https://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/2024/12/19/co-president-elon-musk-trump-ally-tests-influence-spending-fight/>; Trump Makes DOGE Head Elon Musk a 'Special Government Employee' Amid Accusations of a Takeover, USA TODAY (Feb. 3, 2025), <https://www.usatoday.com/story/news/politics/2025/02/03/doge-elon-musk-special-employee-federal-government/78185365007/>.

<sup>2</sup> See, e.g., 18 U.S.C. § 208(a) (providing that executive branch employees, "including a special Government employee," that participate in any matter in which they have a "financial interest" may be subject to civil and criminal penalties); 18 U.S.C. § 1924(a) (providing that any employee of the United States who, "by virtue of his office, employment, position, or contract, becomes possessed of documents or materials containing classified information of the United States, knowingly removes such documents or materials without authority and with intent to retain such materials at an unauthorized location" shall be subject to criminal penalties); Defend Trade Secrets Act (18 U.S.C. §§ 1831-1839); Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. § 78a et seq., see also, 15 U.S.C §§ 78j, 78u-1); see also U.S. Government Officials Privately Warn Musk's Blitz Appears Illegal, WASH. POST (Feb. 4, 2025), <https://www.washingtonpost.com/business/2025/02/04/elon-musk-government-legal-doge/>.

Musk has seized control of a sensitive Treasury Department data and payment system, potentially giving him the ability to control which payments the Treasury Department makes and almost certainly providing him access to nonpublic information pertaining to Boring Company's competitors—such as sensitive information regarding government contracts.<sup>3</sup> Mr. Musk's staff have gained access to the Office of Personal Management's ("OPM") Enterprise Human Resources Integration and USAJOBS, giving him the ability to access the personally identifiable information of not just federal employees, but anyone who has ever applied for a federal government position.<sup>4</sup> He has directed the heads of every agency of the federal government to email the chief of staff of OPM, a former employee of Mr. Musk's, with the identities of all federal workers on probationary periods.<sup>5</sup> The reckless haste with which DOGE has forced these sweeping changes may violate the E-Government Act of 2002, the Privacy Act of 1974, and the Administrative Procedure Act, among others.<sup>6</sup>

Mr. Musk's apparent control over the personal data of millions of Americans and the federal government's most sensitive financial workings is unprecedented and deeply troubling. Mr. Musk's access to the payment system at the Treasury Department grants him the ability to influence the system used for tax refunds, Medicare and Medicaid payments, and other services on which hundreds of millions of Americans rely. Mr. Musk has used DOGE to interfere with or encourage the elimination of federal agencies or programs that his companies, or his competitors, have had direct interest in.<sup>7</sup> This access may violate federal law and may also allow Mr. Musk to gain a competitive advantage in his numerous businesses, including Boring Company.<sup>8</sup> He may also have the power to withhold payments or hinder government programs without having to provide any explanation or notice.<sup>9</sup> DOGE's operations will also provide its employees with substantial information and influence over government contracts and plans that are commercially material to Mr. Musk's businesses.

Mr. Musk has also installed former (and, perhaps, current) employees of his companies throughout the federal government.<sup>10</sup> Since gaining unheard-of authority over the Treasury Department's systems, including potentially access or administrative rights to systems with classified information or significant national security risks, Mr. Musk has provided access to these systems to a group of unvetted software engineers, reportedly ranging in age from 19 to 25, who appear to have interned at, worked at, or otherwise have connections to Mr. Musk's various business interests.<sup>11</sup> At OPM, new personnel with connections to Mr. Musk include the chief of staff and at least five other senior staff members.<sup>12</sup>

It is imperative that Congress promptly obtain all information pertaining to Mr. Musk's unprecedented power grab, including the extent to which the information and influence Mr. Musk has obtained is being used to the commercial benefit of Boring Company, and whether Boring Company personnel are working on behalf of DOGE.

To assist the Subcommittee's understanding of what sensitive information Boring Company has obtained, which Boring Company personnel are assisting DOGE, what steps Boring Company has taken to address conflicts of interest, and how Boring Company plans to ensure that Mr. Musk's access to sensitive, nonpublic information and control over government programs does not result in violations of state and federal law, please provide the following information to the Subcommittee by February 14, 2025. I further request that you provide the Subcommittee with updates to Boring Company's answers to each of the following questions on a biweekly basis thereafter.<sup>13</sup>
